Methodology

The City and Borough of Juneau Planning Department in 1984 developed a Strategy for Historical Preservation which identified a number of historic preservation activities to be pursued. The department already was deeply involved in historic preservation with the designation of the Juneau Downtown Historic District, creation of a Design Review Board, and plans for renovation of Front and Franklin Streets. A strategy to continue preservation planning was needed so that specific tasks could be identified and funding secured.

One of the activities identified in the Strategy was an update of an earlier study by the department to survey the area's historic resources: Alaska Heritage Resource Survey Sites in the Juneau Area 1980. The update would do the following: all listed entries would be located within the City and Borough of Juneau; all listed entries reviewed for documentation and Alaska Heritage Resource Survey criteria applied; and as time and funds permitted, new entries added that focused on Starr Hill and Douglas Island.

A new approach was developed to organize and present the collected information. Juneau's older neighborhoods are composed of structures that reflect the economic diversity of the early settlers as well as architectural details unique to that era. The gathered data would be organized and presented in a format based on the historic neighborhood in which the site or structure was located. Boundaries of the projected historic neighborhoods would be established using a number of factors: geography, topography, historic use and types of structures and businesses located within the area. Organized by neighborhood, the inventory should serve as a resource and data base for use by local citizens and planning by the City and Borough.

A projected goal of the update/inventory was the identification of historic neighborhoods that met the criteria for future designation as a historic district. This designation would aid the Planning Department in developing ordinances and assist in creating incentives for preservation and restoration within the historic district.
Telephone Hill was the first historic neighborhood in Juneau to be extensively surveyed. The study, funded by the Department of Transportation and Public Facilities, documented the site and thirteen structures on the hill prior to their planned removal. The site was to be cleared in preparation for construction of a proposed Legislative Hall. The Telephone Hill study revealed the rich history of a neighborhood adjacent to the Juneau Downtown Historic District and pointed to the value of information developed by a study.

Juneau's locally designated Downtown Historic District has stimulated an unprecedented amount of downtown restoration and renovation by both the public and private sector. The City recently completed a full renovation of Front Street including new paving and sidewalks, the addition of a turn-of-the-century clock and lamp posts, and the removal of powerlines. Further renovation is planned for South Franklin Street. A National Register of Historic Places Nomination for the Downtown Historic District is one of the preservation activities identified in the Strategy.

Inventory of Historic Sites and Structures City and Borough of Juneau is the product of an update of the earlier AHRS study. The Inventory is composed of a listing of identified sites and structures organized by neighborhood and contains a basic level of information on each entry. The following is included: AHRS number (a statewide listing of historic resources), CBJ number (City/Borough of Juneau listing of historic resources), historic name, location, pertinent dates, physical description, significance, and a list of sources from which the information for the Inventory entries was drawn.

Each entry is the product of a lengthy documentation process. The search for information begins with the legal description of the site or structure. The Tax Assessor's records provide certain kinds of information: history of ownership; changing values of property; improvements to the property; physical description of the structure; valuation of personal property on the site; and legal documents pertaining to the property. Tax Assessor Rolls, dating from 1901, are in the City vault and provide this type of information. For information prior to 1901 the District Recorder has records of lot location claims made by Juneau's early settlers.
Information is also obtained from other sources: Division of Lands (Department of Natural Resources), Bureau of Indian Affairs, U.S. Forest Service, Sealaska Corporation (Department of Natural Resources) and Central Council of Tlingit and Haida Indian Tribes of Alaska. The Alaska Historical Library has an extensive collection of historical photographs, manuscripts, periodicals and books which document early local history. Historical photographs document age and changes to a site or structure. Information can be gathered from early Juneau newspapers on microfilm in the library. Other resources at the library include the Juneau and Douglas telephone books, Polk's Gazetteer and Directory, and the L.H. "Kinky" Bayer Collection. All contain information about early residents, their occupations, addresses, and professions as well as early community businesses and social organizations.

Other research facilities in the area include: Alaska State Archives and Records Center, Sealaska Heritage Foundation Tribal Archives, U.S. Bureau of Mines and the Alaska Electric Light and Power Company.

A listing of people associated with a site or structure is useful in the next phase of information gathering. Using this list, oral history interviews with knowledgeable local residents can provide additional documentation to entries in the INVENTORY. Juneau's stability and long association with mining and government has brought continuity to this frontier settlement. Businesses pass from one generation to the next, family association with the trades and professions continue and the good health of the community remains in the hands of many of the sons and daughters of early pioneers. Their knowledge and memories are a valuable resource in gathering history.

Two important and valued sources of information are Historian Robert N. DeArmond and Trevor Davis, early Juneau photographer and storyteller. A researcher in Juneau history must begin and end with DeArmond and his fine research and writing on the Juneau area.

Juneau's neighborhoods have followed a distinct pattern of development over time beginning with the survey of Juneau Townsite which includes downtown and surrounding neighborhoods: Telephone Hill, home to Richard Harris and Edward Webster, location of the Juneau and Douglas Telephone Company and nearby U.S. Courthouse; Starr Hill, site of numerous mine workers houses; Chicken Ridge, home to Juneau's early business leaders and mining operators; and Indian Village, best documented through historic photographs. More recent neighborhood development has been in Casey Shattuck and Mendenhall Valley. Douglas City, twice devastated by fires, has few historic remains today but is rich in historical association. In outlying areas of the borough, a few remains can still be found at the sites of canneries, mining operations and homesteaders cabins. This document captures the past and present through its listing of sites and structures that record Juneau's past.

The Inventory is a step in the strategy of the Planning Department's historic preservation activities. As new sites and structures are identified and found significant, they will be added to the inventory, creating incentive for more in-depth research and work. An individual site, structure, and/or neighborhood can then be chosen for more detailed research. History of a community can be re-created through the interpretation of a site or a structure's physical remains and its association with people and events.
City of Juneau Historic Neighborhoods
HISTORIC NEIGHBORHOODS

This document is organized using the concept of a historic neighborhood. All entries are organized by the neighborhood in which they are located and the CBJ number with an alphabetical letter as prefix identifies the neighborhood and the site or structure. A map of all historic sites and structures within each neighborhood precedes the entries in the inventory for a particular neighborhood. The boundaries of the individual historic neighborhood are arbitrary and based on a number of factors: topography, architecture, association and relationship of structures to each other and their location.

To research a particular entry in the INVENTORY, please check the INDEX for name, address, lot/block, addition, Alaska Heritage Resource Survey number (preceded by JUN-), the CBJ number (preceded by an alphabetical letter) and the page number upon which the entry can be found.

HISTORIC NAME: Davis House I
DATE(S): 1892-1912
LOCATION: 132 6th Street
LOT/BLOCK #: Lot FR-4 Block 29 Juneau Townsite

DESCRIPTION: One of series of houses constructed on 6th Street by J. Montgomery and Frances Davis between 1892-1912. All were similar in the following architectural details: 2-story, gable roof, wood frame construction - all similar with slight variation in interior floor plans. Constructed to either be rented or sold.

SIGNIFICANCE: The pioneer Juneau Davis family continues to be represented by the son of J. Montgomery and Frances, Trevor Davis. Both pioneer Montgomeries lived in Juneau over forty years, making contributions in business, art and community leadership. Davis was one of Juneau's early settlers and built a home at 202 6th Street in what was then a dense woods. There were no streets, lights or water and all lumber had to be carried to the building site. The Davis family built portions of 6th Street so that horse and wagons could reach their home. They bought and improved property nearby and added to the growth and development of Juneau.

LOCATION: 400-430 5th Street

LOT/BLOCK #: Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 Block 25 Juneau Townsite

DESCRIPTION: Extensive complex of structures: church, school, chancery and hospital. All structures are of wood frame construction with wood shingle siding. Church and chancery: gable roof, wood shingles. Hospital and school: modified flat roof with wood shingles. All are examples of well maintained turn-of-the century architecture.

SIGNIFICANCE: The first Catholic Father arrived in Juneau in 1885 and immediately established a mission. Shortly thereafter, with the assistance of the Sisters of St. Ann, a Canadian teaching order, a school and hospital were established. The oldest building, dating from the 1890's is the chancery at 416 5th Street. The school on the corner of 5th and Harris was built around the turn-of-the-century and as a hospital but extensively remodeled in 1918 to be a school. In 1914, the Sisters built a larger hospital, which served as Juneau's main hospital until 1971.

DATE(S): unknown

LOCATION: NW 1/4 of NW 1/4 of Sec 1 T41S, R66E CRM (Juneau B-2). On tidal flat of Gastineau Channel, on elevated wooded rocky outcrop located .3 km S/SW of eastern end of Juneau International Airport runway.

LOT/BLOCK #: N/A

DESCRIPTION: The center of land-form is cleared of trees with thick berry bushes, although uneven and poorly suited for duff, indicating burning of the landform. Bedrock is composed of slate. On north side of landform a flake was located (and collected) in talus material below a soil horizon. Artifact composed of a dark gray siliceous rock resembling fine-grained quartzite or granular chert. Artifact consists of a proximal frag of a flake with water-worn cortex, a flake removal and percussive crushing on dorsal surface and pronounced bulb of percussion and errailures on ventral surface. Unretouched flake frag. is ca. 2.5 cm long and wide, .8 cm thick.

SIGNIFICANCE: Presence of artifacts appears to indicate prehistoric occupation and/or utilization of landform. Burning of peaty soils may have destroyed other evidence. Further study might contribute significant data concerning subsistence/settlement evolution along northern NW coast. Geologist D. Swanston suggests that chert material was imported a considerable distance. Artifact will be housed in the Alaska State Museum in Juneau.

DATE(S): Historic

LOCATION: SE 1/4 of NE 1/4 of Sec 14 T39S R64E CRM (Juneau B-3). Immediately north of Amalga Harbor boat launch and just within forest.

LOT/BLOCK #: N/A

DESCRIPTION: Site consists of a small shell midden located behind thimbleberry patch at an elevation of + 2m above high water line. Midden extends for a minimum of 50 m along elevated beach ridge, and contains abundant mussel, clam, and urchin remains as well as charcoal. 10-20 cm of forest litter and duff overlie midden deposit and concentrated lens of burnt
In the inventory of historic sites and structures of the City and Borough of Juneau, twigs and branches sit directly on top of midden. Midden depth appears to reach at least 40 cm in places and shell is found in matrix of dark organic loam containing small amounts of gravel. Remains of an historic structure are found in front of midden. Scattered historic material is also present.

Significance: Well preserved linear shell midden probably represents a prehistoric village of the Auk Tlingit. Heavy use of site as a latrine area may be changing the site chemistry. DeArmond (1957) discusses the historic use of Amalga Harbor, activities which may have an impact on the prehistoric site deposits.

DATE(S): unknown

LOCATION: On Shaman Island off Douglas Island's western shore, 15 km N/NE of Outer Point. NE 1/4 of NW 1/4 of Sec 19 T41S R66E CRM (Juneau B-3). Latitude N 58° 18' 20", Longitude W 134° 41' 00".

LOT/BLOCK #: N/A

DESCRIPTION: Site consists of localized shell midden exposures on SW & SE corners of Shaman Island, an elevated rocky stack surrounded by early vertical cliffs and connected to Douglas Island by a narrow spit at low tide. SW midden exposure of moderate density is in area of cleared forest and dense berry bushes. SE midden exposed in wooded area beneath tree throw and consists of nearly pure mussel and cockle shell midden. Fire-cracked rock and charcoal observed in both areas. Evidence of extensive otter and bird shellfishing also present on surface and on duff. Recent camping and other use of island is also evident from historic trash, fire pits, etc.

SIGNIFICANCE: Site has geographic attributes of a Tlingit fort site (panoramic view, strategic location, defensible position) as does JUN-250 nearby and both may be associated with Tlingit village midden. (JUN-099) observed on Outer Point. Site can provide significant data on Tlingit settlement/subsistence, adaption to a marine environment.

HISTORIC NAME: Peterson Creek Shell Midden

DATE(S): Historic

LOCATION: SW 1/4 of NE 1/4 of Sec 19 T41S R65E CRM (Juneau B-3). Midden is located on tip of peninsular cliff forming the east side of the cove into which Peterson Creek empties. 165 km due east of tip of Outer Point.

LOT/BLOCK #: N/A

DESCRIPTION: Site consists of a small (~20x30m) shell midden of very high density located at an elevation of ~15m above mean high water on the end of a peninsular raised terrace surrounded by steep cliffs. Exposures on the West and North sides indicate that shell midden is at least 40-50 cm deep, and is composed predominantly of mussel, with some clam, cockles, chiton, barnacle and marine fish remains. In some areas the midden consists of nearly pure shell lenses alternating with dark brown organic soil lenses.

SIGNIFICANCE: Site represents one of the few known shell middens within the Juneau area and may be related to the Auk Kwan Tlingits. In addition, portions of the site are actively eroding downslope, suggesting that site may be eroded entirely away eventually.

Grave markers located at top of slope with numerous depressions evident below. Markers are wood and stone, with many in ruins.
SIGNIFICANCE: The cemetery may be part of the original Douglas cemetery established in the early 1880's. Burial ground of Richard McCormick, an early Douglas and Treadwell pioneer. McCormick worked for the Treadwell Company as a blacksmith for more than 40 years, and was postmaster in Treadwell from 1911-1913 and is said to be the oldest Democrat residing on Gastineau Channel.

HISTORIC NAME: Eagles Lodge Cemetery
DATE(S): Circa 1900
LOCATION: On northeast side of road near Lawson Creek in city of Douglas.
LOT/BLOCK #: N/A
DESCRIPTION: Approximately 444-square foot cemetery surrounded by four-foot-high chain link fence with gate. Area is well maintained. White, wooden grave markers, stone monuments and engraved metal markers flush with the ground. Metal may be copper or bronze.
SIGNIFICANCE: Cemetery may be part of old Douglas cemetery established in the early 1880's when the town started. Graves from old cemetery moved in 1934 to prepare a new highway to Cowee Creek. Graves dated 1905 are still evident. Burial site of Arne Shudshift, a Douglas carpenter, and family.

HISTORIC NAME: Outer Point Village

DATE(S): Circa 1801

LOCATION: South of Outer Point on Douglas Island bordering T41S, R66E, S19
USGS Juneau (B-3) Stephens Passage

LOT/BLOCK #: N/A

DESCRIPTION: Site on an inlet with salmon stream entering between low grassy beach areas. Forested area rises gradually on both sides. 1975 field survey reported site overrun with road construction.

SIGNIFICANCE: May be significant historical site. Seasonal village site may be the one reported by Captain George Vancouver in 1801. Other reports note that a halibut drying and trapping camp with small gardens was located there.
1975 field check suggested probable yield of valuable archaeological remains if a more extensive survey were done.

SOURCES: 13, Jake Cropley Statement; 23, pp. 628-629.

AHRS#: JUN-104

HISTORIC NAME: Southeast End Village

DATE(S): Unknown

LOCATION: Southeast end on Douglas Island, west of confluence of Gastineau
Channel and Stephens Passage T42S, R68E, S27 USGS Juneau (A-1)

LOT/BLOCK #: N/A

DESCRIPTION: Two-acre site is a terrace about 15 feet above the beach. A rocky point juts out between two rocky beaches. One distinct house pit and one or two less-distinct foundation areas, relatively level, grassy, and interspersed with small to medium spruce trees. Garden ridges evident.

SIGNIFICANCE: Reported as seasonal village site used by Native people of Douglas before Douglas mines opened. 1975 field check indicated former cultivation of area.

SOURCES: 7; 23, pp. 660-661.
HISTORIC NAME: Outer Point Garden & Midden

DATE(S): unknown

LOCATION: NE 1/4 of NE 1/4 of Sec 19 T41S R65E CRM (Juneau B-3). Located ca. .75 km S/SW of end of False Outer Point in woods behind west-facing beach just S. of high beach cliffs. Small creek issues onto beach 130m SW.

LOT/BLOCK #: N/A

DESCRIPTION: Site consists of a small (+ 20x40m) garden plot on a flat raised beach ridge ± 1-2m high and 10-25m behind high water line. A small exposure of low-density mussel shell midden was observed in humus soil under tree at the SE corner of the site. Two deeply axe-cut trees were observed and trees growing on top of garden rows are up to 24" in diameter at breast height, indicating some antiquity since termination of site occupation. No structural remains or other historic materials were observed in site area.

SIGNIFICANCE: Sealaska (1975) reported an unconfirmed ethnohistoric summer village in the Outer Point area (now listed as JUN-99). It is possible that JUN-251 represents the locality and that JUN-99 is erroneously placed upon Outer Point proper. JUN-251 represents an important ethnohistorical site.

HISTORIC NAME: Treadwell Ditch Tender's Camp

DATE(S): 1890's-1920's

LOCATION: Douglas Island SE 1/2 NW 1/4 NE 1/4 Sec 18, T41S, R67E, CRM (Juneau B-2)

LOT/BLOCK #: N/A

DESCRIPTION: Site consists of five identified buildings, one collapsed/collapsing, one is still standing and is fair condition. Also present at the site are four dump areas and one wooden paddle water wheel.

SIGNIFICANCE: The camp housed ditch tenders who maintained the Treadwell Ditch. Waters from the Treadwell Ditch powered the mills processing the hard rock gold for the Treadwell Mining Complex. Ditch tenders walked assigned lengths of the ditch, keeping the ditch free to ensure the flow of water to the mine.
